This is the

ROSETTA STONE

It helped experts learn to read Egyptian hieroglyphs

But what exactly does it say?

Please draw what the I from Pixar sees when it's being jumped on by the lamp:

Artist Barbara Kruger makes art about things we see everyday.
What's missing?

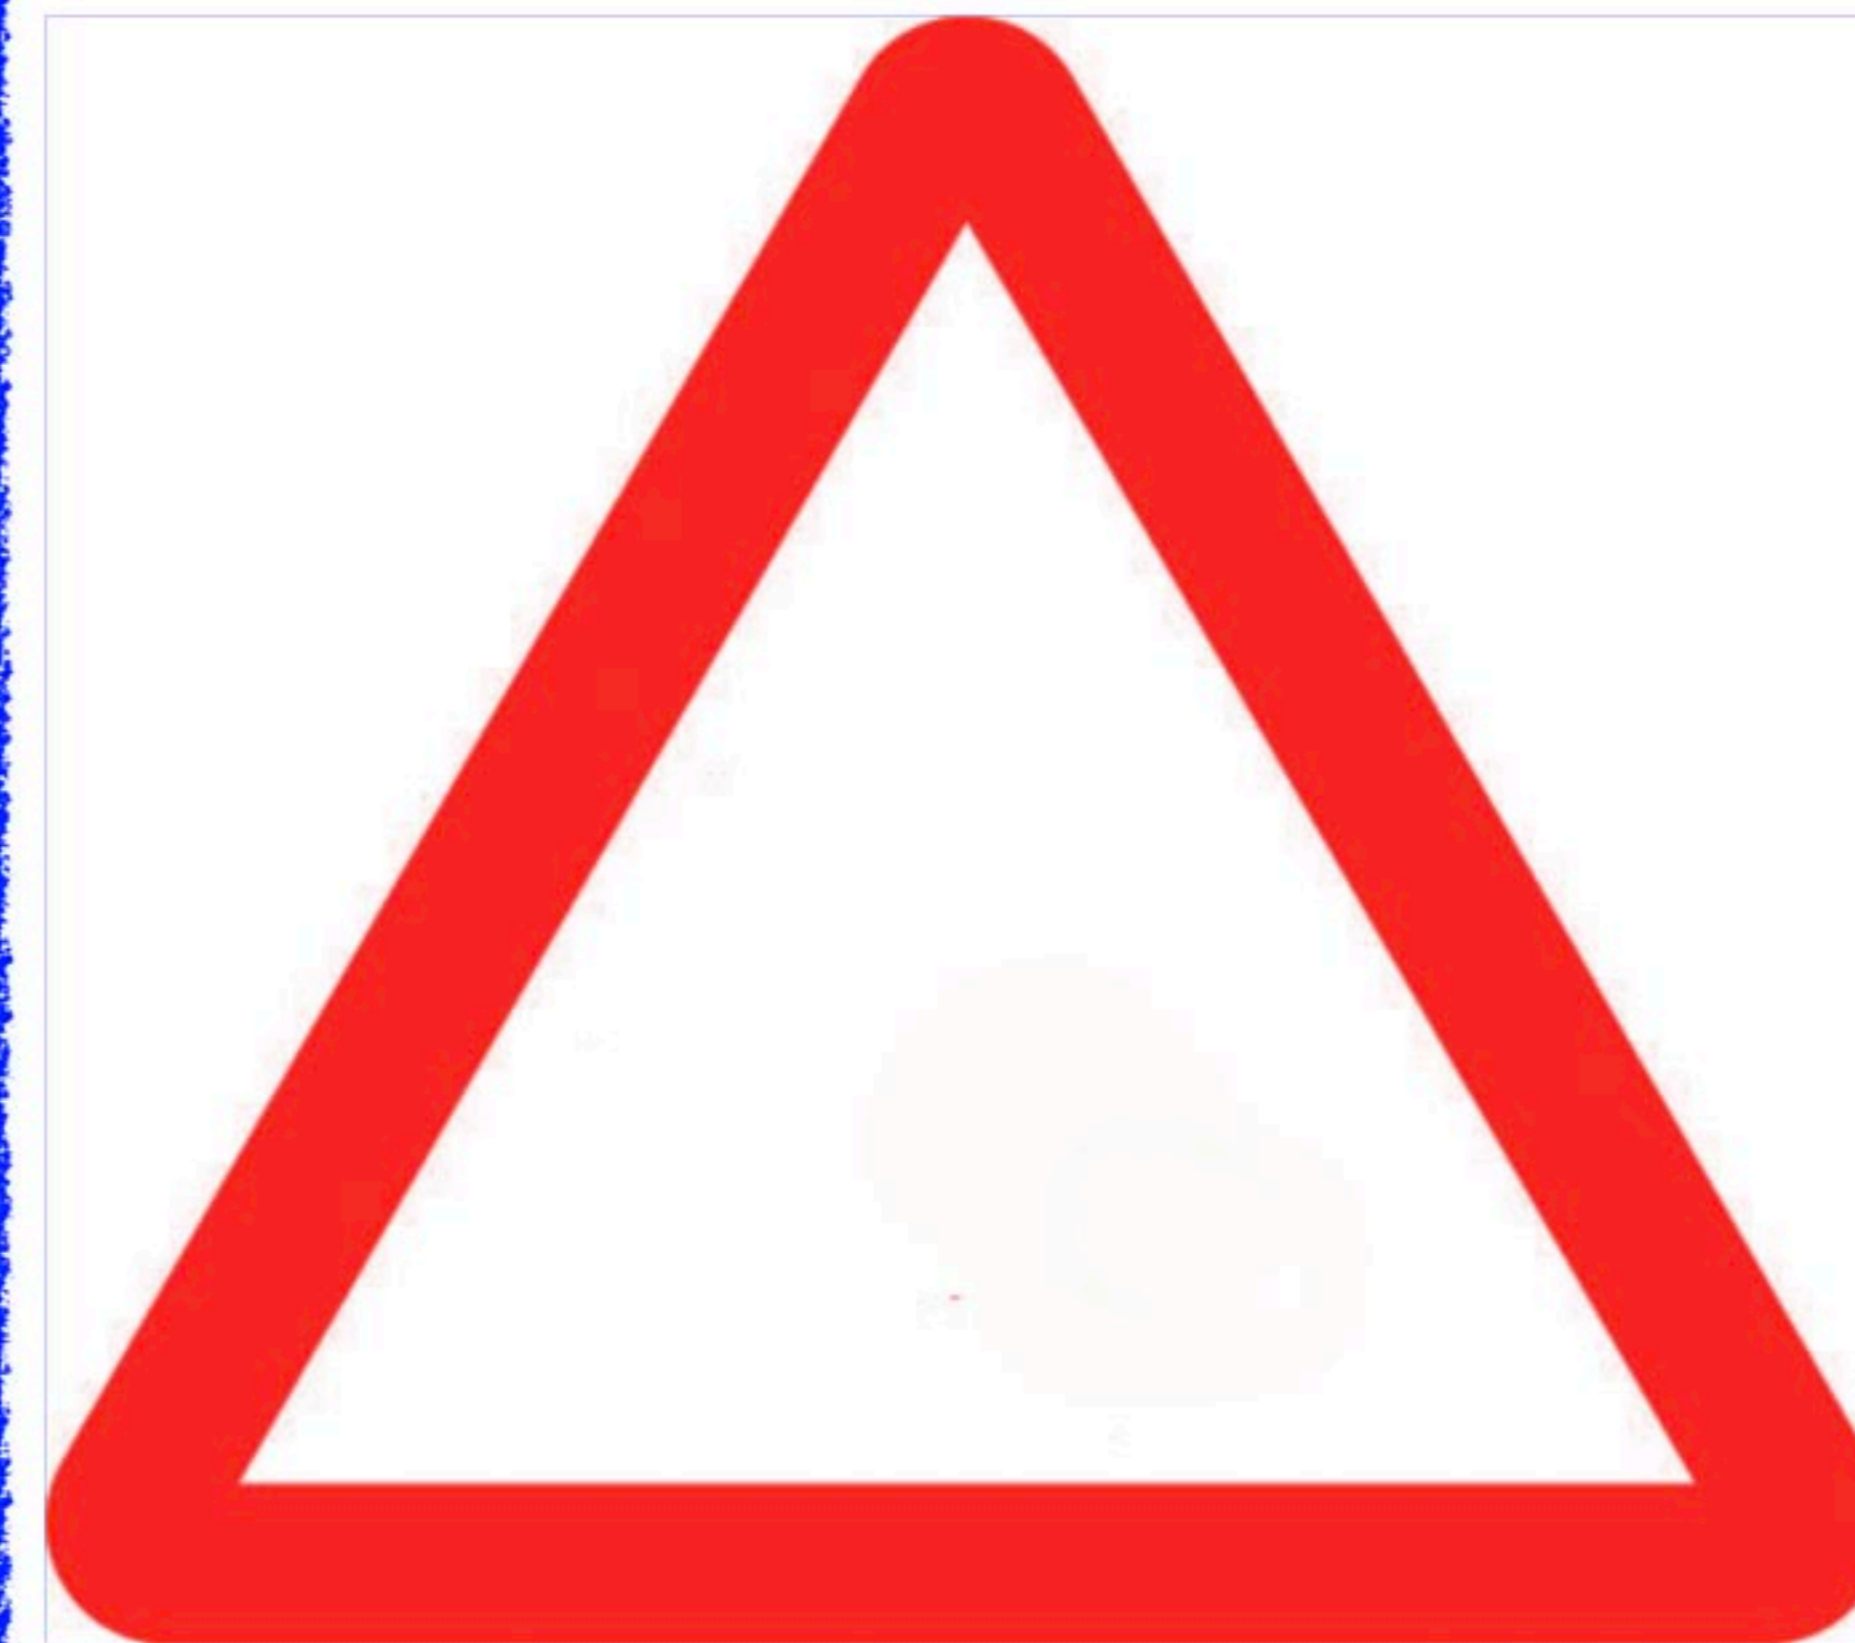

Please draw an exhausted exclamation mark:

Italian artist Alighiero Boetti loved to make art out of letters.
But it's hard to work out what he's getting at. Please make it easier to read:

Please create a new road sign for

THOUSANDS OF HOT DOGS ON THE ROAD

Yin and Yang is an ancient symbol for harmony and balance

Please draw the symbol for chaos and confusion

Some languages add extra bits to their letters to make them sound different. For example:

â é ï ö ū

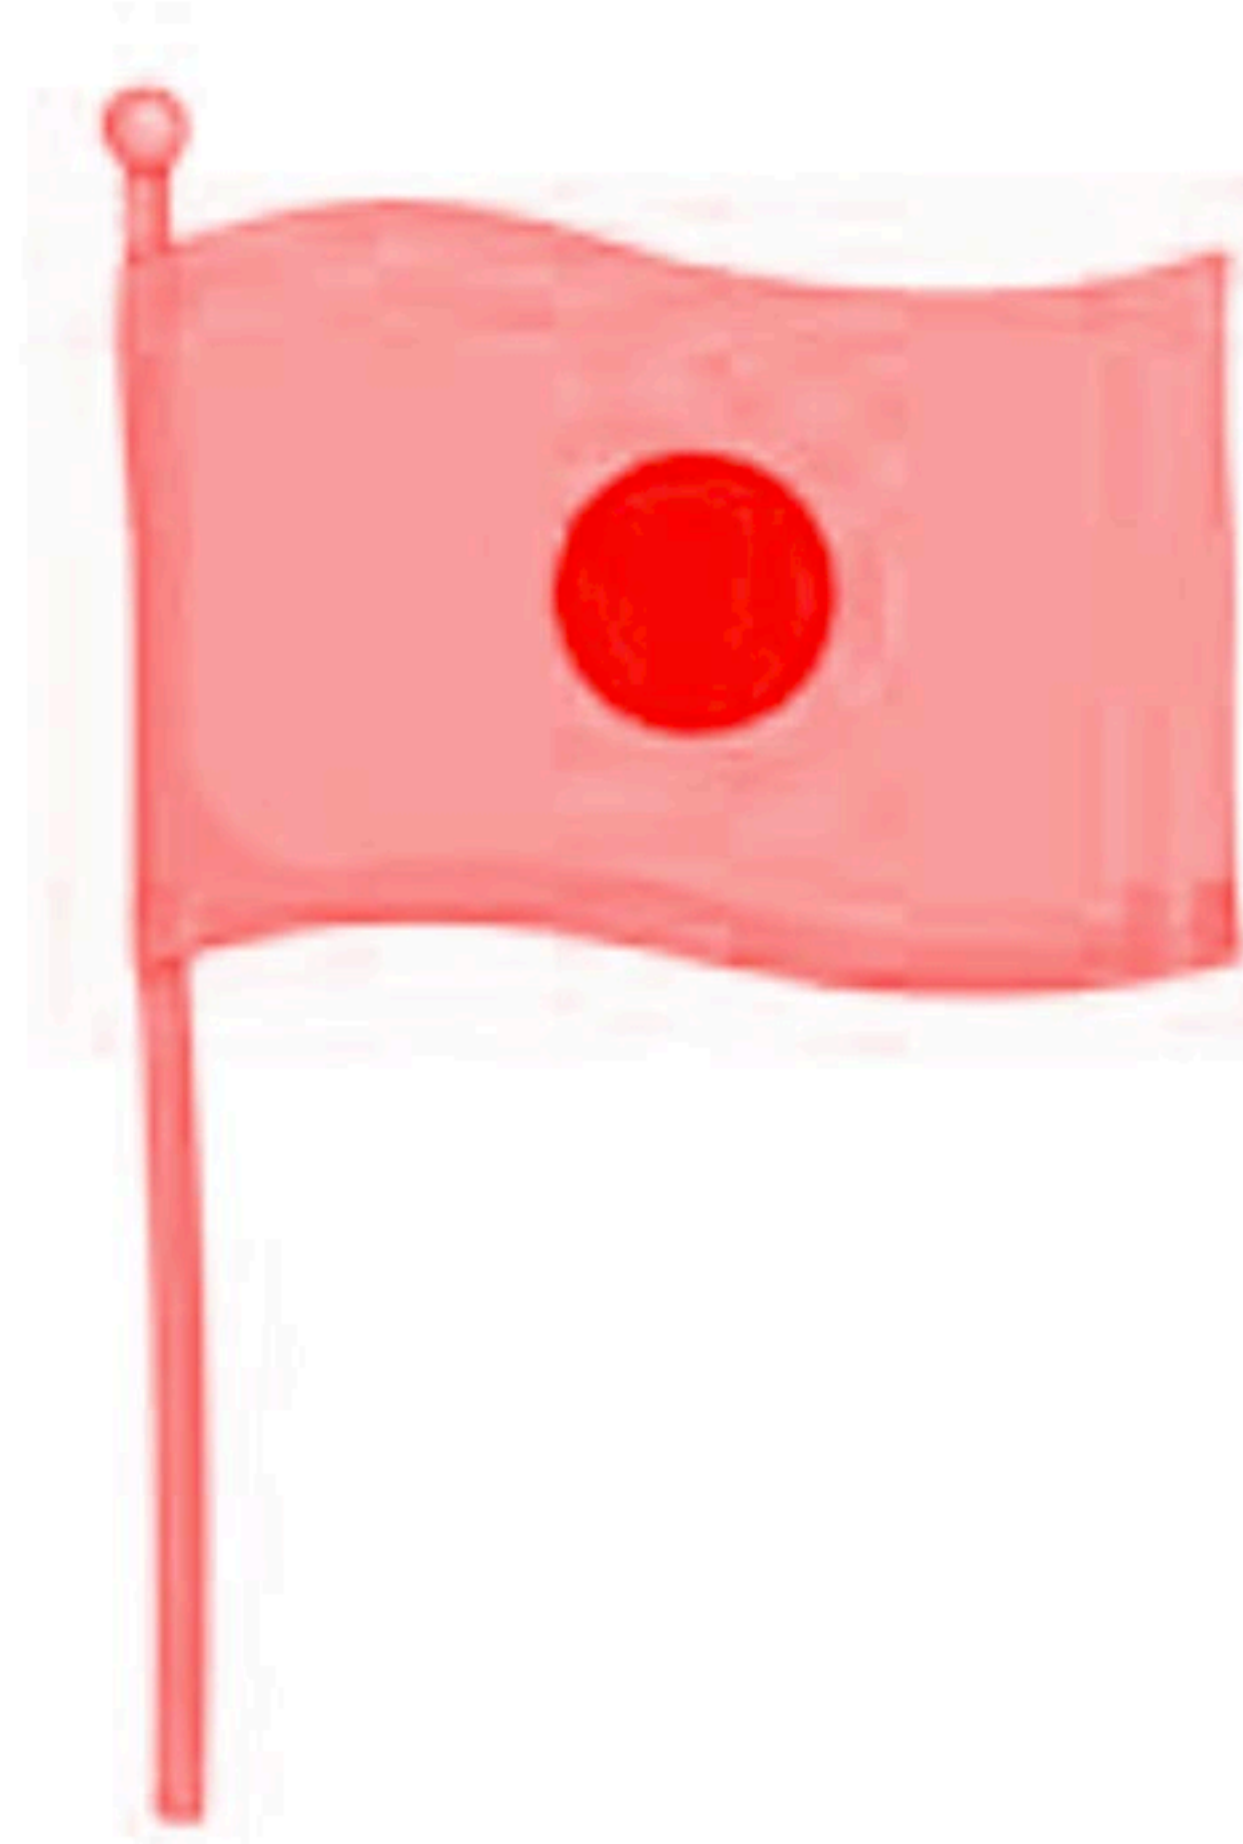

What sound would this letter make?

Flags on beaches all have different meanings. But the coastguard need a new design:

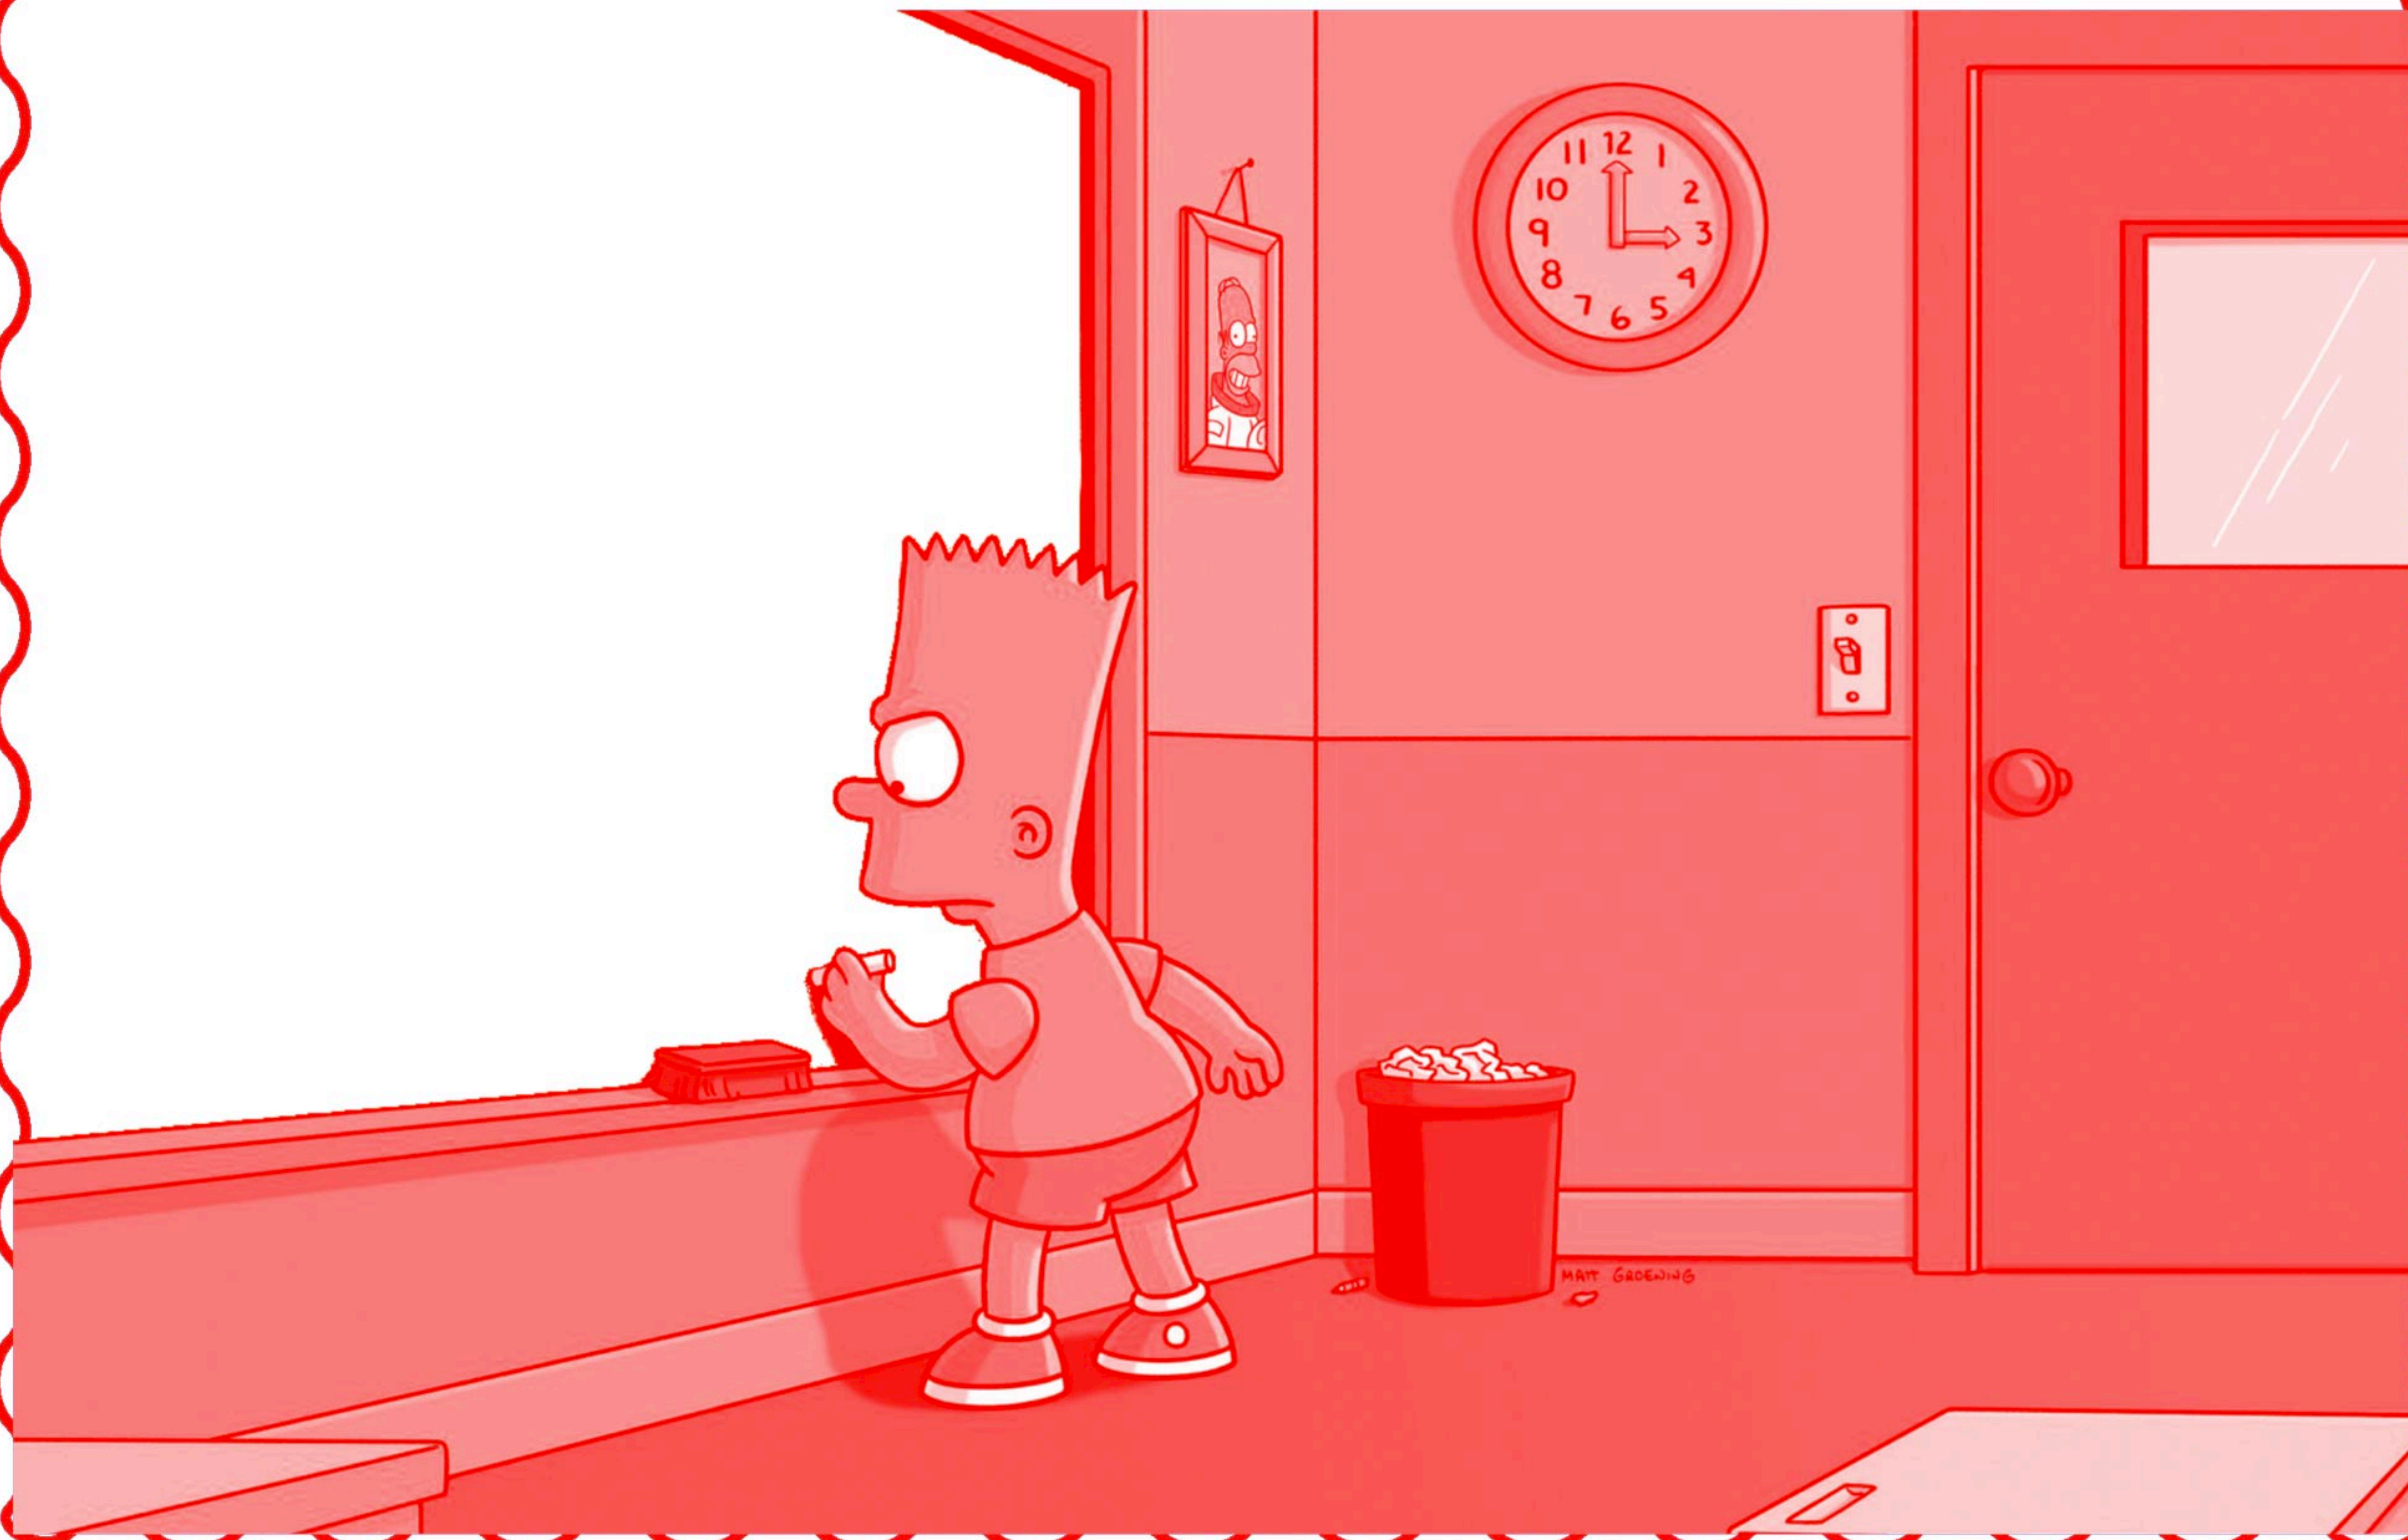

Surfing area

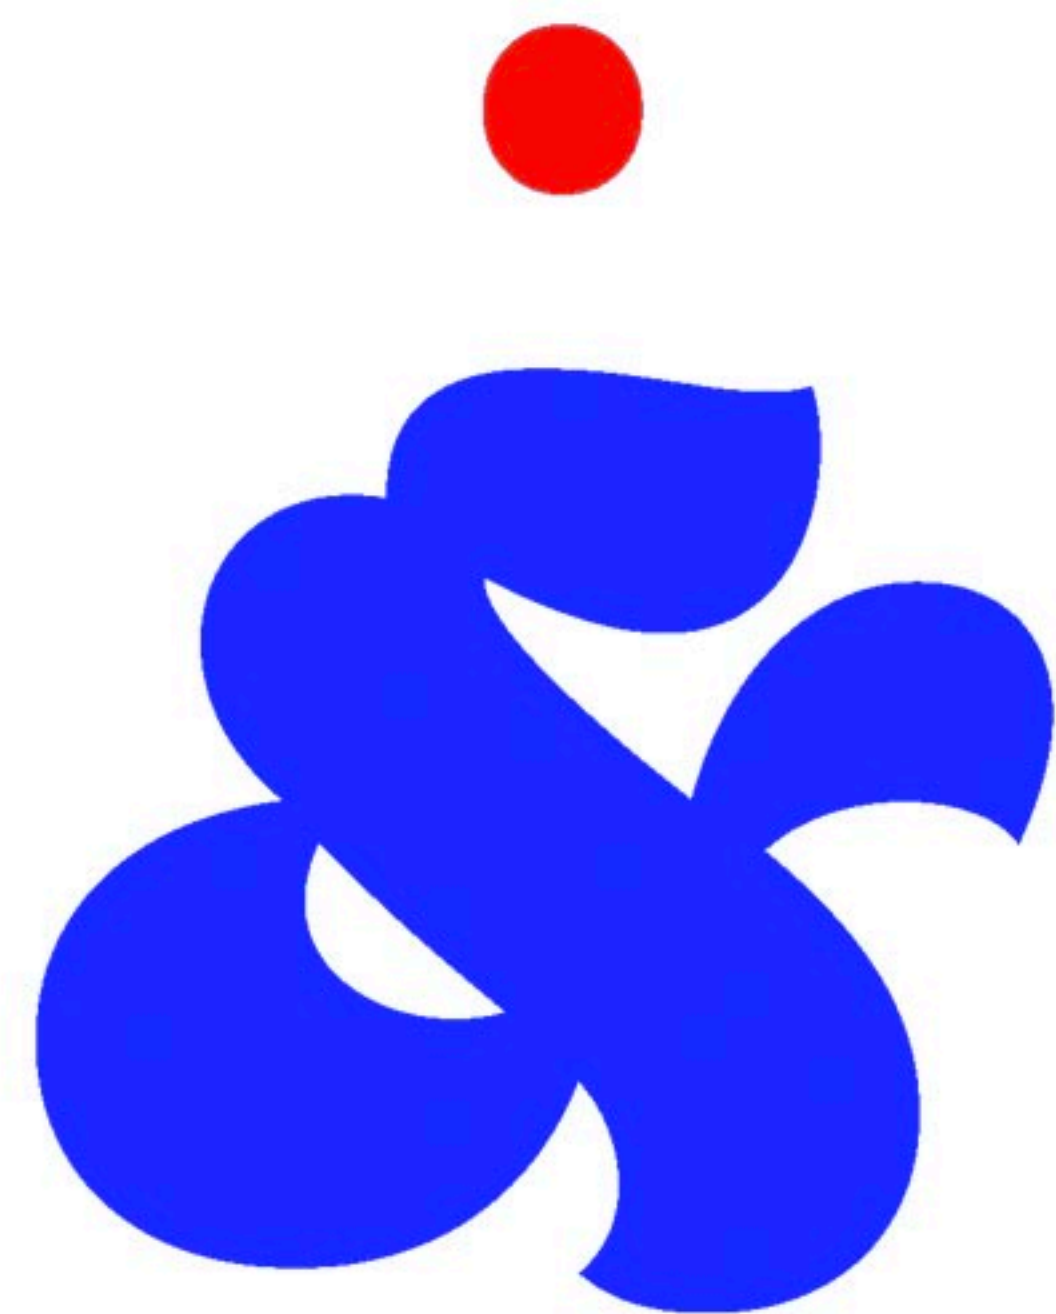

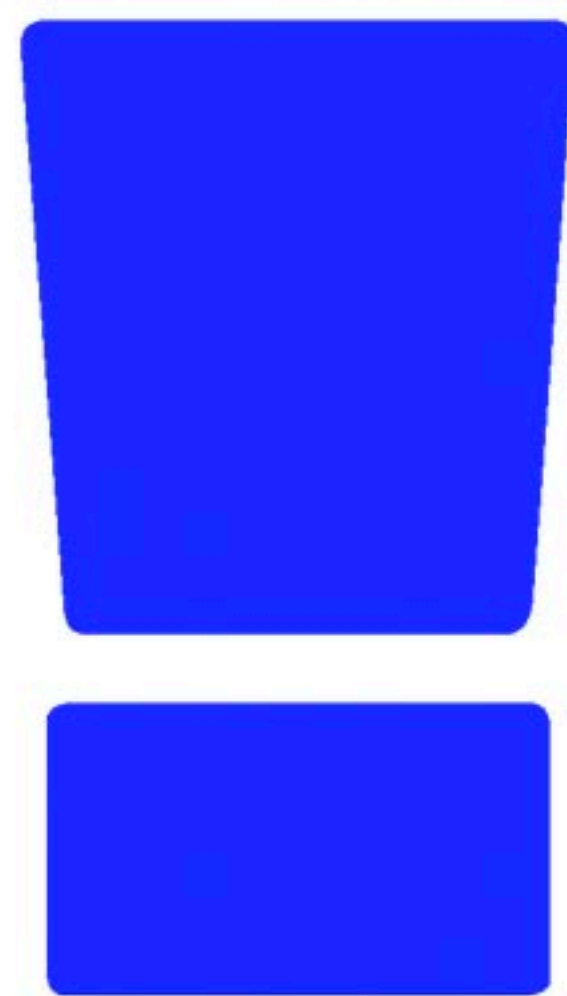

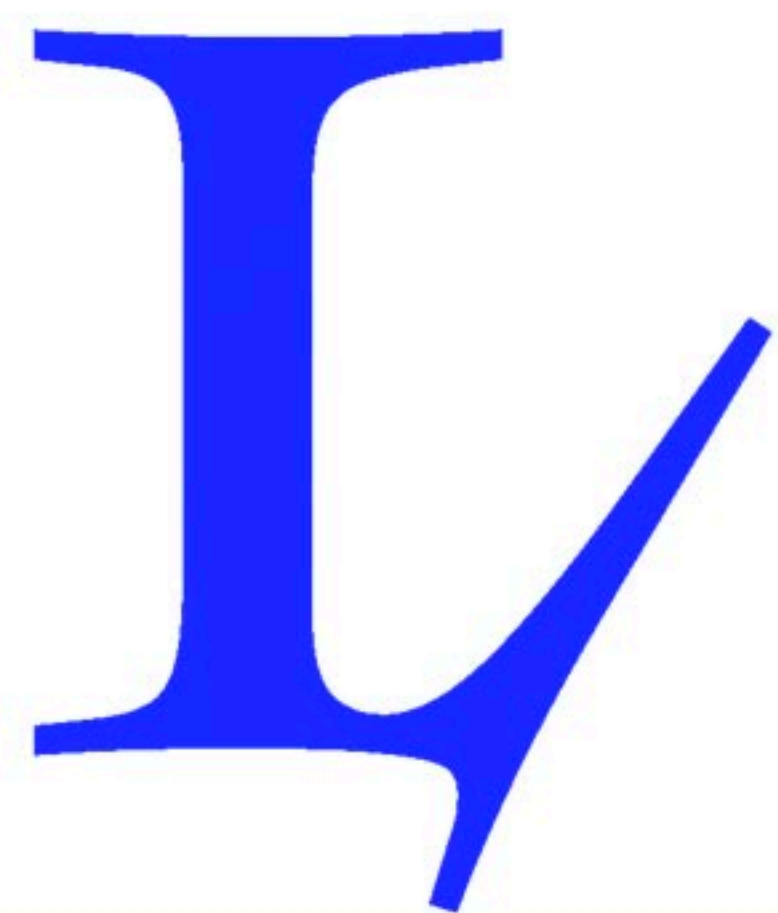

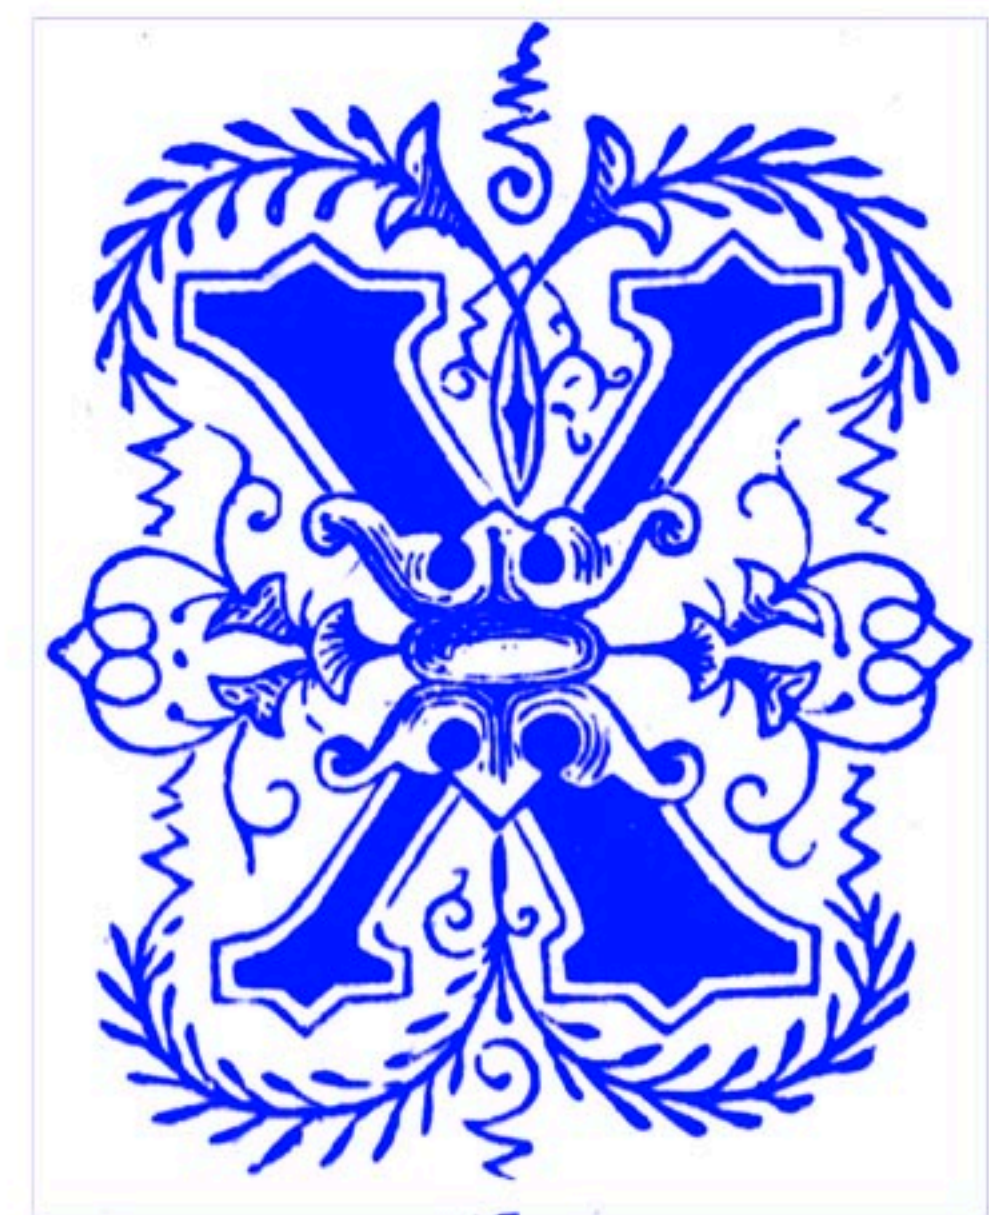

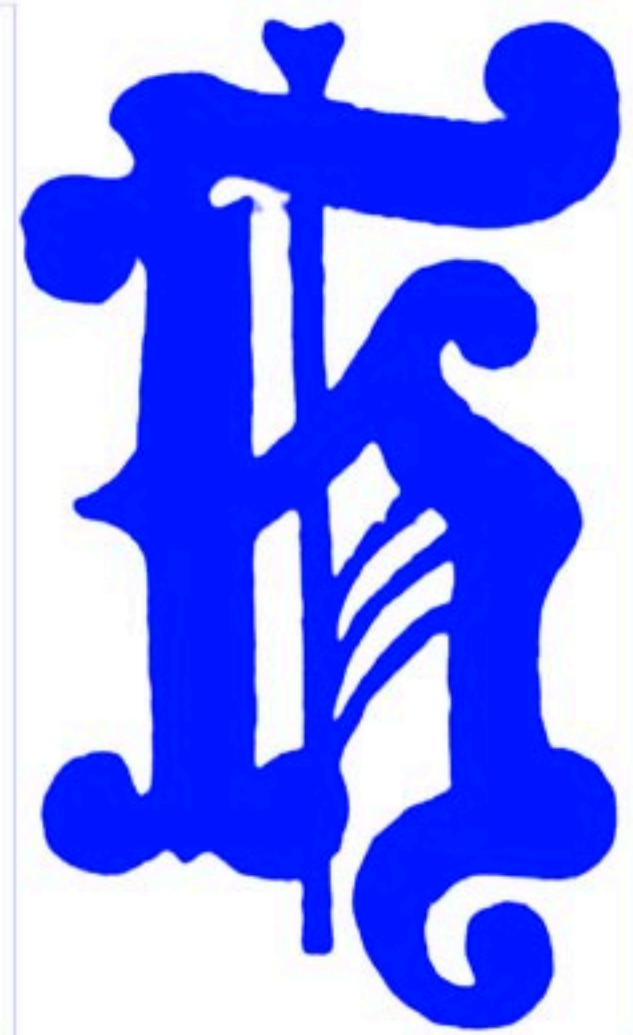

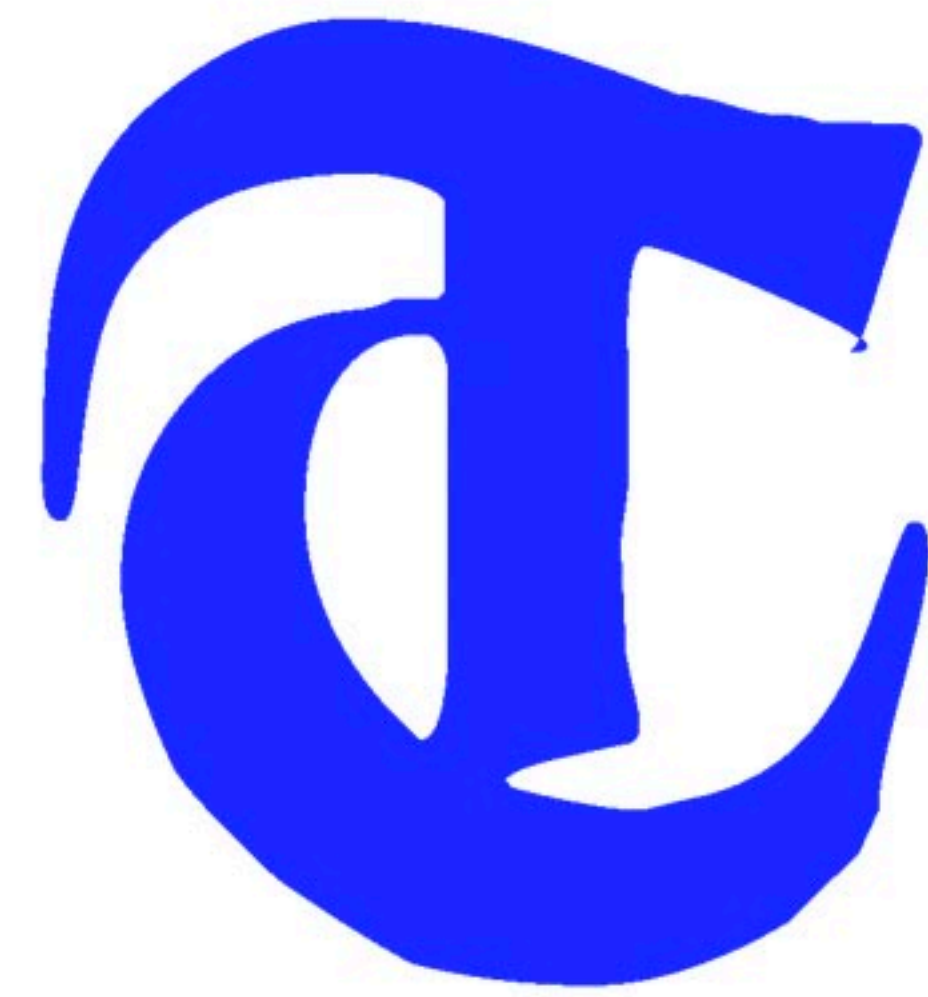

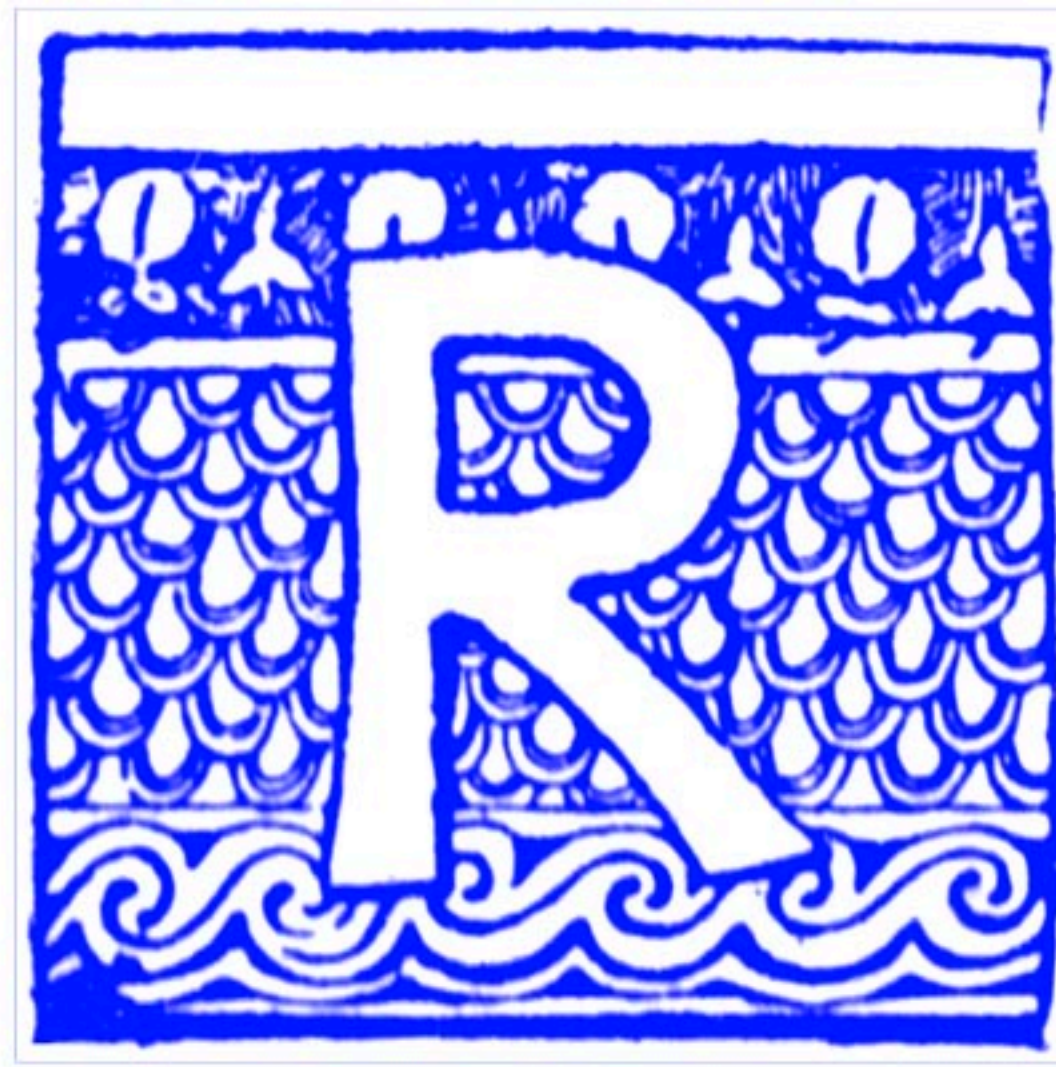

No surfing

Giant jellyfish surfing

Bart's not in trouble this time, just misunderstood.
He just wants to express himself and tell the world how he truly feels.
What does he have to say?

The world is full of letters, signs and symbols.
These are sometimes called GLYPHS.

Glyphs can represent a word or an object. For example in ancient egypt:

B =

C =

Grab a piece of clay and create a brand new GLYPH in the space below and then tell everyone what it means!
